Jem Southam

Revisiting the same place to record the changes to the coastline caused by the sea is his way of demonstrating that the task of fighting erosion is futile.

Jem Southam - Rivers Mouths, Rock Falls, Ponds

This image showing a recent rock fall illustrates something that is happening throughout the whole of the UK coastline.

If these cliffs are protected then what about others?

On my regular visits to Happisburgh this scenario is a regular occurrence and it is ceaseless.

Alan D Horn Once a Garden wall Happisburgh Jan 2020

The rear of what was once a garden wall and pathway. The debris was part of a cliff fall in December 2019.

The Norfolk Coastal Path stretches from Hunstanton around to Yarmouth but is now regularly re-sited as it falls into the sea. Way markers, once inland will soon be gone-
